Cyrus Davierwalla

Founder & Chairman, Avesta Computer Services Ltd.

We needed a compelling social media presence to showcase our services and grow our business by extending our online network. We chose Socioloca and have been very happy with them. They revamped our website and developed our social media strategy by drawing on their expertise and incorporating our ideas. Today, we have a distinctive presence on LinkedIn and we have seen substantial growth in our Social media following and a significant increase in traffic to the Career pages on our website. Socioloca's creative design, content management and account management teams have been very easy to work with and are always available when we have needed them. The senior management is proactive in promoting awareness and consistency of our offering. Their attention to detail frees up our time so we can focus on our business whilst being confident that our brand credibility is being enhanced. I recommend Asa and her team of whiz kids to any organization that is serious about investing in a social media presence
